DEER RESISTANT PLANTS

Please note that deer are browsers and as such they are always taste testing. Your best defense is a 7' – 10' high fence. Other options include the scent repellents "Repellex" and "Liquid Fence" and the taste repellent "This 1 Works!" Also, motion activated sprinklers or lights may deter deer for a while. Other home remedies include chunks of IRISH SPRING soap every 10', weekly spraying of plants with fish emulsion (also acts as a foliar feeding), blood meal (may attract dogs or cats), netting, or crisscrossing fishing line (80lb. test is best).

Deer are creatures of habit and very responsive to any stimulus that might indicate a threat or conceal a threat. Interrupting their path of travel with motion or fragrance can cause them to change their browsing pattern, at least for a while.

Deer do not read deer resistant plant lists. Different deer have different tastes, and due to their habitual behavior they eat different things in different places. Fawns try anything they see and all deer like to sample a new plant. Use the deer resistant list as a guideline only.
